

IFPN Bio – Adrian Jones RN – SCP | President AfPP

Adrian commenced his theatre nursing career in 1982 whilst serving in the Naval Nursing Service (Q.A.R.N.N.S). In 1996 Adrian returned to his home cities, Norfolk & Norwich University Hospital, to become one of the first Orthopaedic Surgical Care Practitioners (SCP) in England: a role where non-medical professionals practice surgical interventions within a Consultant led surgical operating team.

Adrian encourages role development within perioperative teams and has represented AfPP in national working parties/consultations on advanced perioperative roles and has spoken internationally on the subject. His special interests are emerging perioperative roles, surgical site surveillance, health informatics and leadership development.

As President of AfPP he seeks to ensure board engagement and leadership for all of our association members, that enables sustainability and national influence as the extended surgical team continues to develop globally.
